

Meredith Corporation Teams Up With The Association Of National Advertisers' (ANA) #SeeHer Movement To Increase Accurate Portrayals Of Women In Media

Meredith Becomes First Publisher To Test Brands Using SeeHer's GEM™ (Gender Equality Measure) Module

NEW YORK, Oct. 23, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Meredith Corporation (NYSE: MDP; www.meredith.com), the leading media and marketing company reaching 175 million American consumers, including 80 percent of millennial women, is partnering with the Association of National Advertisers' (ANA) #SeeHer initiative to increase accurate portrayal of women in advertising and media. This announcement will be made at the 2018 ANA Masters of Marketing Conference in Orlando, Florida, later this week.

The ANA launched #SeeHer at the United States of Women Summit in June 2016 to increase the accurate portrayal of women and girls in media. The goal is to improve the authentic representation of women by 2020, the 100th anniversary of women winning the right to vote. To date more than 75 companies, with a collective U.S. spend of $50 billion dollars, have joined the movement. To track progress, #SeeHer developed a data-driven methodology called the Gender Equality Measure™ (GEM™) which identifies unconscious bias in advertising and programming. Since its launch, GEM™ has become the industry's standard metric quantifying consumer reaction to the portrayal of women in advertising and programming.

Meredith brands are currently being reviewed for GEM™ certification. As part of the partnership, Meredith will put its vast resources and brand power behind the #SeeHer movement. Beginning in December and expanding in 2019, Meredith brands, including PEOPLE, InStyle, Better Homes & Gardens, Martha Stewart Living, and Parents, will promote the partnership across all platforms.

"Women influence or make 85 percent of all purchase decisions. As a company that connects and engages with 110 million American women, coming alongside #SeeHer is the right thing to do socially and for the bottom line," said Alysia Borsa, chief marketing and data officer, Meredith Corporation.

"Meredith is a long-standing valued partner of the ANA, and we are delighted about its commitment to expand our #SeeHer movement's message on such an enormous scale," said Bob Liodice, chief executive officer, ANA. "We are excited about the potential and look forward to fully amplifying the reach in 2019."

Lisa Schoder, U.S. media intelligence and strategic planning lead at Ford Motor Company, commented, "An early supporter of the #SeeHer initiative, the Ford Motor Company is committed to supporting the equitable portrayal of women in the media. We applaud Meredith for adding their empowering voice to inform women about this campaign and as a key element of our partnership, have sponsored 'Firsts - Women Who Are Changing the World.'"

ABOUT #SEEHER

Despite the strides made to accurately portray women and girls in media, an unconscious bias persists against women and girls in advertising, media, and programming. The Association of National Advertisers (ANA) launched the #SeeHer initiative in June 2016 in a partnership with The Female Quotient \(TFQ\) at the United State of Women. #SeeHer's mission is to increase the accurate portrayals of women and girls in media 20 percent by 2020, the 100th anniversary of women winning the right to vote in the U.S. The group developed a Gender Equality Measure (GEM™) to track progress and the marketing effect of removing unconscious bias from ads and programming. High GEM™ scores directly correlate to improved ROI. GEM™ became the industry standard in the U.S. which led to a global rollout in mid-2018.
