

DISH Network Drops Meredith-Owned Television Stations

DES MOINES, IA (July 16, 2019) - Today Meredith Corporation-owned stations were dropped from the DISH Network lineup. By law, cable and satellite companies must negotiate in good faith with television stations before dropping the TV stations' signals. DISH failed to reach an agreement. Meredith-owned stations' programming, including local news and many popular CBS, FOX, ABC and NBC programs are not be available on DISH systems. Meredith-owned stations will still be available over-the-air and from all other cable, satellite, and OTT providers serving their respective markets.

"Meredith has been trying for months to get DISH Network to negotiate seriously and reaching a deal is our top priority," said Patrick McCreery, President, Meredith Local Media Group. "We know the vital local news, emergency information, and top-rated sports and entertainment programming we provide are important to DISH's customers, and we hope DISH will make it a priority to reach a deal too. Meredith stands ready, willing and able to reach a fair deal with DISH. Meredith has successfully completed hundreds of carriage agreements, and there is still time for DISH to reach a deal too."
